

Drug used as a Restraint, Sub-Acute Agency

(A.A.C. R9-20-101) A pharmacological restraint as used in A.R.S. § 36-513 that is not standard treatment for a behavioral health recipient's medical condition or behavioral health issue and is administered:

- a. To manage a behavioral health recipient's behavior in a way that reduces the safety risk to the person or others; and
- b. To temporarily restrict the behavioral health recipient's freedom of movement.