

Medical Records

(A.R.S. § 12-2291) All communications that are recorded in any form or medium and that are maintained for purposes of evaluation, treatment or the provision of community services to a person, including reports, notes, orders, test results, diagnosis, treatments, photographs, videotapes, X-rays, billing records and the results of independent medical, psychiatric or psychological examinations that describe patient care. Medical records also include all psychological, psychiatric or medical records held by a health care provider, including records that are prepared by other providers. Medical records do not include materials that are prepared in connection with utilization review, peer review or quality assurance activities.